You can set your choice of any of over 10,000 four-letter words as your combination to the alpha-centric WordLock Cable Bike Lock. You can even use some of the ones your mom told you never to say.

How many of you have cable locks hanging out in the garage, safely locked but unusable because you just cannot remember the numeric combination?

We counted three ourselves ... we haven't gotten rid of them because we still think that we'll remember that combo someday - most likely at 3:00 am on a stormy night.

WordLock has come up with a solution to this growing national dilemma with a lock that uses words as the combo instead of numbers.

Let's start with BIKE and LOCK, FAST or DIRT or ROSE or PYRE ... you can set the lock to your choice of any of over 10,000 four-letter words as your combination to the alpha-centric WordLock Cable Bike Lock. You can even use some of the ones your mom told you never to say.
